

Although many stylistic changes, variations, and modifications could be made to the art, the intention is to cover the invention in all its possible permutations of its construction, variations, styles and designs, of which the above are just examples.